BRAND STORY

From Europe · Luxembourg

In Europe in 1919, in order to improve trade relations with neighboring countries, the king of Luxembourg created a comprehensive transportation route for the kingdom and the layout of towns in the future new territory. Therefore, he ordered his people to contribute to the great blueprint of the future of the kingdom, and awarded the highest honor medal of the kingdom and was reused.

In order to get the king's approval, Luxembourg's royal carpenter McCarver pondered hard and drew day and night. Finally, he designed a wooden track that could be spliced. He used the best trees at that time as raw materials. Every part was handmade. What was more unexpected was that the little prince and little princess in the castle could play together happily and enjoy it every day. The king liked it so much that he immediately ordered the production of a large number of these orbital toys, awarded the carpenter McCulver the highest medal of honor and appointed McCulver as the first planner of the kingdom.

Soon McCaffe's wooden orbital toys were popular in the kingdom, and McCaffe became a major contributor to Luxembourg.
